Nordiasoft is thrilled to announce that it is now part of VIAVI!

Earlier this year, Nordiasoft became a wholly owned subsidiary of VIAVI Solutions. The acquisition follows a 4-year long collaboration between VIAVI and Nordiasoft in the field of modular instruments. Nordiasoft's ability to assist international customers will be multiplied by VIAVI's significant global presence. The expertise and technologies of Nordiasoft will lead to a new generation of test instruments for the Software-Defined Radio market and others. VIAVI's leading position in a wide range of markets, including 5G communications, will provide Nordiasoft with a much greater opportunity to introduce its technology into new commercial and defense markets.

VIAVI's lab-to-field philosophy, which helps customers bring products from a concept in the lab to a commercial field-deployed and maintained solution, could not be more aligned with Nordiasoft business model. Nordiasoft gets involved in the early stages of development of next generation products and becomes a key partner for product deployment and certification testing.

As part of the VIAVI team that serves Commercial, Government, Aerospace and Defense customers, Nordiasoft will continue to provide state-of-the-art solutions to help design, build, deploy, and test next generation software defined systems worldwide.

Welcome to the future of Wireless Development!
